

RUSHTON SPENCER (or the Rushtons) and HEATON.

RUSHTON SPENCER, anciently "Risseton," is a small township formed into a separate parish May 19, 1865, from the civil parish of Leek, and stands on an acclivity on the Cheshire border, within a short distance of the Leek and Macclesfield road, and near the Rushton station on the Churnet Valley section of the North Staffordshire railway, which passes through this township; it is 7 miles south-east from Macclesfield, 5 north-west from Leek, and 157 from London, in the parochial chapelry of Rushton (which includes the townships of Rushton Spencer, Rushton James and Heaton, and the hamlet of Rushton Marsh), in the Leek division of the county, North Totmonslow hundred, Leek union, petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Leek, archdeaconry of Stoke-on-Trent and diocese of Lichfield. The Church of St. Lawrence the Martyr, formerly called the "The Chapel in the Wilderness," on the top of a steep elevation near the village and screened by noble firs and yew trees, is a small but ancient and curious edifice of stone, built originally almost wholly of timber, and consists of a chancel and nave, south porch and western belfry containing one bell; over the piers on the north side of the naïve is some dog-tooth carving in oak, dating from the time of Henry III, and probably unique; in 1898 the church was re-seated and re-floored at the cost of £250, and now affords 250 sittings. The registers date from 1700 only, the older ones having been lost or destroyed. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £226, including 66 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Leek, and held since 1910, by the Rev. George Herbert Smith B. A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The poor of Rushton Spencer have the benefit of a house and 1½ acres of land, purchased in 1753, and let for £8 yearly, as well as of £22 left by Alice Eardley and Mary Sydebotham, by will 13th March, 1744; the rent is chiefly distributed in weekly doles of bread. The Rev. James Turner, incumbent of Meerbrook, on the 1st November, 1854, charged Spring Cottage,

Roachside, with £1 yearly for bibles and prayer books. The manor of Rushton Spencer, which formerly belonged to the De Spencer, Savage, and other families, now belongs to the freeholders. The principle landowners are Charles Dennis Bradwell Esq. Of Higher Daisy Bank, Congleton, and Charles Harwar Esq. Of Acomb House, York. The soil is light and sandy; subsoil stiff clay and sandstone. The land is principally in pasture. The area is 1,860 acres of land, inclusive of 8 of water; rateable value, £3,212; the population in 1901 of the civil parish was 315 and of the ecclesiastical parish (Rushton St. Lawrence) 903.

Rushton Marsh, within Rushton Spencer, is a hamlet, close to the road from Leek to Macclesfield.

RUSHTON JAMES is a township in Leek parish, 5 miles north-west from Leek, in the manor of Horton. In 1725, 9th December, Elizabeth Hulme, of Buglawton, left the yearly sum of £4 out of her messuage at Woodhouse Green to be distributed clothing to six poor people on October 16th. Lt.-Col. John Coutts Antrobus, of Eaton Hall, Congleton, is lord of the manor and principle landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil clay. The land is principally in pasture. The area is 1,390 acres of land, inclusive of 6 acres of water; rateable value, £1,899; the population in 1901 was 229.

HEATON is a township in Leek parish and Rushton chapelry, 4½ miles north-west-by-north from Leek. The river Dane here separates this county from Cheshire. Here are Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels. The poor of Heaton and Leek Frith have the interest of £200, bequeathed by Sarah Nicolls, Swythamley, 6th June, 1783, and directed to be given in woollen clothing on Jan. 1st in each year by the owners for the time being of Swythamley Park and Grange. The late Sir Philip L. Brocklehurst left the sum of £300, the interest to be expended in blankets and woollen clothing to be given away yearly and called "The Brocklehurst Dole." Swythamley with the extensive manor of Heaton, was granted by Henry VIII. in 1540 to the Traffords; the mansion is a long and irregular stone building covered with ivy, in a deer park of 200 acres, overlooking a large extent of fine wild scenery, and is now the property and residence of Sir Philip Lee Brocklehurst bart. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. Within the park grounds stands a church erected by Lady Brocklehurst as a memorial to her husband, the late Sir Philip Lancaster Brocklehurst, bart. who died in 1904. From the Cloud (Crymro-Celtic, "clawdd" a height), in the township of Rushton Spencer, which attains a height of 1,190 above the level of the sea, a very extensive view is obtained, including the towns of Leek, Congleton and Macclesfield, the Cheshire and Staffordshire hills, Beeston Castle and Delamere Forest. The soil is clay and sandstone; subsoil clay. The chief crops are oats, but the land is principally in pasture. The acreage is 2,689, inclusive of 8 of water; rateable value, £3,210; the population in 1901 was 359.
